

them at first, when she began having difficult breathing at meal time when she had just taken one thirty minutes before, I began to suspect that it wouldn't be too long. She was weak but she was active and her mind was clear right up to the moment of her death. Indeed she had washed dishes the morning before she died, she rode with us that afternoon when I took Katy home and petted the dog and sat late that evening. She didn't eat much for supper but that happened all too often and I didn't think too much about it. She took some Amphojel for her sour stomach when she went to bed and about ten-thirty she took a nitro-glycerine for her breathing. I listened for a good while and when I didn't hear anything, I dozed off. John heard her call about twelve-thirty and from her breathing we were pretty sure it was the last attack.

Tried to phone the doctor but the line was out and he didn't get here till she was gone. She suffered some but I have seen her suffer longer and harder in the hospital. I think she would have liked this way best.

I can't really grieve for her, her body was so tired of living and her soul was ready to go. I was just afraid that she would have to be sick in bed for a long time and to anyone who has been so active that is very distressing. As it was she knew that she didn't have so long to wait and she was just simply waiting, without questioning until God was ready for her.

Mary Jo was in the bed and I thought she was asleep but when I mentioned Granny saying "God be merciful" she said "Yes she said, God have mercy on me." I told her Granny was asking God to take her so she wouldn't suffer any more. She doesn't seem to have any morbid notions about it and I am glad that her first intimate acquaintance with death could be the death of a Christian. If I can do that well, I think I will be satisfied. Love - Johnnie.

Dear Alma:

I thought sure I would write sooner than this but it has just been one mad scramble ever since Panny went and I couldn't get settled down enough to write a half way intelligent letter. We had to put off the funeral until Saturday because others were scheduled for the time we wanted. Friday. Didn't get home till Sat. night and Mary Jo was supposed to be baptized Sunday and I knew Panny wouldn't want us to postpone it. Had a norther and a dust storm Monday & Tuesday. Looks like it might settle down today. And I've had the belly-ache right along with all of it. Think I'll go see this local young doctor who just got out of the army. He has the same thing or something just like it so there is hardly any doubt that he has made a thorough investigation of treatments for it.

Before I forget, I want to tell you that I am going to tear up your check, not because we don't appreciate it but because all our bills are paid and yours are still coming, John & Billy are able to handle this without any strain and I think it best that they be allowed to do so.

Granny's health had been getting worse for the last two or three months. I think I wrote you about those four attacks she had about a week apart each time. The last one (Aug. 18) really pulled her down. Billy & Iris took her to Houston for a week after that and the doctor changed her medicine. He gave her four pheno-barbital and four nitro-glycerine tablets a day. This didn't stop the attacks but prevented the nausea and pain. Her attacks kept coming closer to - gether but an extra nitro-glycerine tablet relieved
